NOTES ON THE HISTORY OF THE CONGREGATION OF PRIESTS OF SAINT BASIL were begun during the year 1928-1929 when I was a novice in the Toronto Novitiate. Father William Murray, Master of Novices, permitted me, from time to time, to substitute for the life of a saint after supper a short talk on some aspect of Basilian history. He gave me Father Adrien Chomel's, Le Collège d'Annonay, 1800-1880, to read and he supplemented the information in this book by personal knowledge acquired during a visit to Annonay, 1923, in the company of Father Francis Forster who was collecting documents relating to the history of the Basilian Fathers in America.

Father Michael Christian, Assistant Master of Novices that year, who had made his novitiate at Beaconfield, England and later was first pastor of Holy Rosary Parish when the St. Clair Avenue Novitiate was opened in 1892, used his knowledge of community history to instruct and entertain the novices. Encouragement given by Father Nicholas Roche during the retreat he preached for scholastics at Strawberry Island, August 1930, confirmed my intention of making Basilian history a life-long study. Father Louis Bondy, my Master of Scholastics, often recalled how much community history had been lost at the death of a confrere and counselled, "Write it down if you want to preserve it."

His advice coincided with instruction received earlier within the University of Toronto where members of the staff in Chemistry placed little confidence in the human memory and required students to record the progress of an experiment step by step as it proceeded so that the identical steps could be repeated should this be found desirable at a later date.

Inspiration for a collection of Basilian history was received at St. Michael's College, Toronto, during my graduating year when the Rev. John B. O'Reilly introduced the class of 1928 to Church History in his Religious Knowledge lectures. After describing the monumental sources for European Church History, he expressed the hope that one day the sources for Canadian and American Church History would be collected and published. These "Notes" attempt to meet his wish by gathering the sources for a small segment of this history.

The first plan was to keep the "Notes" on sheets of paper so that they could be organized systematically. However, my experience in library work taught me that the personal papers of a Basilian are quickly lost with the exception of those in book form, e.g. diaries, scrap-books, etc., and the plan was changed to the typing of the "Notes" into bound volumes. This has produced volumes of uneven quality in which valuable source material mingles with antiquarian items that are at best incidental background.

These volumes were typed when material was available and time permitted. More than one volume was regularly in progress in an effort to keep like material together, e.g. volumes devoted to sermons. The typing was done intermittently with an unfinished volume, or material for a volume, being put aside for months and even years. No carbon copy was made of the first volumes, partly because there did not seem to be any need for an extra copy. Later, one, two, or three carbon copies were made, all on the same weight of paper.

When a volume was completed, a card was made for each entry in the table of contents. As the number of volumes grew, these cards failed to locate information known to be somewhere in the series. A general index became a necessity. By chance the index entries for ten volumes just fill 200 pages.

This collection of source material for Basilian history began a generation late. In the months before his death in 1909, Mr. Michael Perry who had lived among Basilians, wearing the soutane and serving as sacristan of St. Basil's Church, Toronto, for nearly forty years, destroyed letters he had carefully saved from the early 1870's. Father Michael Ferguson, who had been one of the first students of St. Michael's College in 1852, kept diaries, notebooks, scrapbooks and letters. Much of this material was dispersed and lost after his death in 1913. Father Daniel Cushing who had studied with the Basilians in France and taught at Assumption College in 1871-72, was likewise a letter saver. After his death in 1928, his collection was destroyed. Not only personal records but also official records have suffered severely. More than one Basilian has made filing space by burning many of the records left by his predecessors.

To all who have supported these "Notes" by giving me letters, etc., by lending me documents, and by thier personal encouragement, I express my warm and sincere thanks.
